Will do. I expect to have the report chapters available via a OneDrive folder. I'll send you the info when I get those loaded. I expect they'll make them available late on Friday, so it will likely be after COB on Friday when I get them all downloaded and into a OneDrive folder.

A briefing the week of May 21 would probably be best, given that Memorial Day is the following Monday and the week of June 4 may be a bit late to address any issues.

Andy,

Let me know how we can access the report and I will facilitate the IOAA review and comment consolidation.

Also please let me know when you would feel comfortable in scheduling a briefing for the findings and review comments discussion.

Best,
Megan

Subject: Review of 4th National Climate Assessment

Jennifer, Richard, Bruce:

I expect to receive notification tomorrow (4/27) that the final clearance draft of the Fourth National Climate Assessment is available for review. I have reached out to several staff in OAR, OW, OP, and ORD to provide a final, show-stopper review of the Assessment by May 18, and have asked whether their IOAAs will expect to provide input to the decision on clearance for publication. I'll note that I will participate in an OAR briefing next week for Bill Wehrum that focuses on the NCA4 process – development, review, and clearance.

Two questions for you:

1. Do you want to review the report and provide comments by the May 18 review deadline? If so, I will provide access to the report once it is available for review (I expect it will be too large to allow it to be emailed).
2. Following the show-stopper review phase, do you want to receive a briefing on the findings and review comments prior to the June 8 decision deadline?
